

Lost in Translation

How do state-funded secondary schools and teachers in England perceive and implement the 'fundamental British values' agenda?

Participant Transcript Information

Your Transcript

If you haven't already you will receive a copy of your transcript of the interview we did together. A transcript is a written account of the interview that was recorded. It is important that you take some time to have a look at this transcript to make sure you are happy with it.

What you might like to consider when reviewing your transcript.

I think it is important that anyone that is interviewed for data collection purposes has the right to review their interview transcript. When reviewing your transcript you might want to consider some of the following:

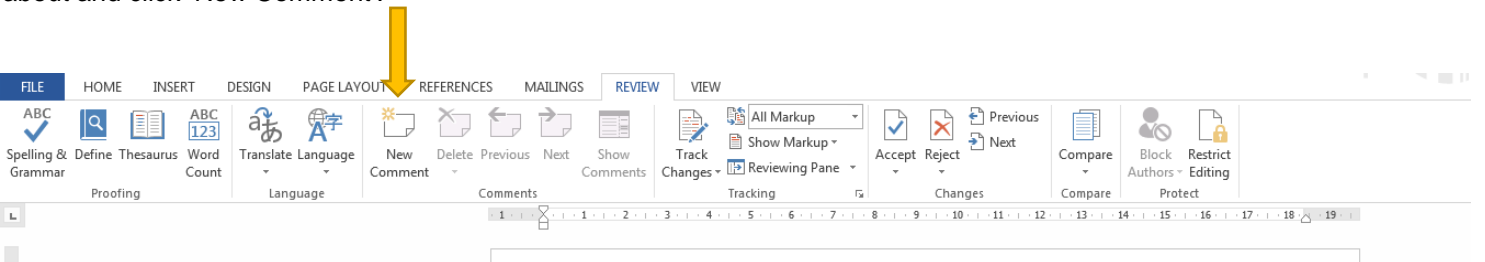

- Making some changes or amendments to the transcript
- Deleting something that you are not comfortable with
- Adding something you think I might find interesting
- Asking me a questions about something that was said during the interview

How to review your transcript

Please make amendments using your transcript by clicking on 'Track Changes'. When you click on 'Track Changes' it will stay light blue. This means 'Track Changes' is enabled.

If you have any comments you would like to make then please highlight the text on the transcript you would like to comment about and click 'New Comment'.

Happy with it?

Some people are happy with the transcript as it is and some people make amendments. Once you are happy with it please send your revised transcript to w.speed@exeter.ac.uk. If you haven't made any amendments please send an email stating that you are happy with the transcript as it is.

If I haven't heard anything from you after the 4th week of the transcript being sent. I will send you an email reminder. After the 6th week I will assume you are happy with the transcript and happy with me to use the results for analysis.
